For each firm, the total score was calculated by doubling the firm's revenue per lawyer and pro bono scores and then adding firm's associate satisfaction and diversity scores. In the 2011 A-List, Hughes Hubbard was ranked first among all firms. Munger, Tolles & Olson, Cleary Gottlieb Steen & Hamilton, Hughes Hubbard & Reed, and Morrison & Foerster had the highest diversity scores among the top 20 firms on the 2011 A-List.
